The Granville County Historical Society, Inc. is a tax-exempt, charitable organization. Your memberships and tax-deductible donations help preserve the vital heritage of Granville County and help support the Granville County Historical Society Museum. Examples of past successes of the Historical Society include: reopening the county jail as the new Granville County Museum in 1996, opening of the Harris Exhibit Hall in 2000, purchasing important artifacts, and publishing a volume on Granville County architecture. A permanent exhibit on Granville County History is planned for the "old jail". At that time, there will be two facilities opened for our visitors.
